

ELVIS WANYONYI MUTAKI

I am Elvis Wanyonyi, born on 29th March, 2005, a fourth born in a family seven children. I've two sisters and four brothers. My father is Makhanu Lawrence Wanyonyi and mother is Norah Atyang, both alive. They've been my source of encouragement as well as support.

One of the most terrifying childhood experiences occurred one night when we were robbed by gangsters. They destroyed all our property and made us destitute. It was so bad.

I started schooling at Winners Academy (Early Childhood Development). I had excellent scores in E.C.D despite financial crisis and lack of electricity and other relevant basic needs. Above all, I bless the Lord I have never had any health problem thus far. Mathematics, English and Kiswahili are my best subjects since they tally with my future career ambitions, becoming an engineer. Social Studies is quite tedious; however, I was confident I would do well in K.C.P.E, which I scored 387 marks! This is one of my greatest milestones at my age.

I am a footballer and a dancer. I come from a Christian background which I ascribe to myself. My trust in God and Jesus Christ has been my greatest source of hope in life and an inspiration for good morals both in school and at home.

My mother's friend informed her about Living Hope High School thus I got to know about this school. I came to do the interview and I'm glad to have been considered to join the LHHS family. I know I'll excel academically and morally hence become an asset for the society and nation. Barack Obama is my role model because of his personality and amazing leadership qualities.

We live in Sango village in Webuye, Bungoma County, Kenya in a rented house that's small and expensive for my parents thus cannot accommodate my large family. We have a latrine though not in good condition which makes me fear we might contract deadly disease. My father attained a high school certificate at the Form Four level whilst my mother reached the college level. Both were lucky to have had jobs which they unfortunately lost due to economic instabilities of their employers. We have nothing to offer at school should I join, though we can afford few personal items. We obtain water from a nearby spring and treat it using chlorine. Our food security is unreliable since we have to buy everything hence a lot of struggles.

My strength is in teamworking and helping others in my capacity. My weakness is my temperament. I'm quick to get angry and also have difficulties in tolerating extreme bad situations.

I'll be overjoyed and so grateful to get any support to develop my skills and to excel in my academics. Much Love and Peace!
