

JOY SALOME WABOMBA

I am at Living Hope High School. I have been here for two weeks and I have never been this happy. I think the Living Hope is close to heaven. I am thanking Jesus everyday and night for choosing me to be here.

I was born on August 11, 2005. My mother is a teacher but cannot find a job. My father is alive, a second born in their family of two.

I went to Moyokwe Primary School from P1-P8. It is a very big school with over 300 students I each grade. There you are one of many and the teachers don't know your name. I like a small school much better. Last year when I was taking my KCPE National test, I was very sick with Malaria. I was in the hospital. They wanted me to not take my test but I told them that I wanted to try. My whole future depended on that test. Although I was very sick, I took my test. I only scored 312 which is much lower than I or my teachers expected. If I had been well, I know I would have done much better. The administration at Living Hope put me on the waiting list for acceptance and I was on pins and needles. At orientation day, several girls did not show up so I was accepted. Praise the Lord!

In my spare time I enjoy singing and praising the Lord with songs. I am like David in the Bible. I want to join the praise and worship team so that I can enjoy singing many times during the week. I am a faithful church goer. I never miss. At my home church, I am a prayer warrior. Sometimes we all pray for one thing and sometimes we each pray for a different person. We see our prayers being answered. Prayer is a powerful weapon against the devil and evil.

My long-term goal is to train in the medical field. I am too young to know which one but I know that God has a good plan for me and will give me wisdom to choose the right one. I like to help people and give them hope. Healing is from God and we are so lucky that God knows exactly what to do. I am a holy person, with a good moral character. I am very forgiving and I have a joyful personality. Here at Living Hope, I would like to join the tract team and the volleyball team to keep my body in good condition and to have fun.

My role model is my uncle. He has helped me my whole life by buying my school books and paying my school fees. My other mentor is my Grandmother. She taught me to be kind and to glorify God with everything I do.

Now it is time to ask you for help. I need a sponsor so that I can continue here at Living Hope High School. I am praying that you will pick me to love and support. I will always make you proud and together we can make the world a better place for everyone.

Sincerely,

Joy Wabomba.
